Momagui Mowat (Bear Dance)

$275/120 minutes

The religious beliefs of the Native American Ute were based in nature, with animals serving as the central deities. The Ute believed they were closely related to the bear, which features prominently in Ute myths. We honor this tradition with a two and a half hour journey for a completely restorative experience...a path to discover your ancient soul. Select a totem representing your spiritual animal and the focus of your intent during the service. Named for the annual Bear Dance, also known as "Momaqui Mowat" this treatment begins with an exfoliating, cleansing and detoxifying mineral skin treatment, continues with an application of a hydrating body balm to nourish and protect the skin. The journey is completed with a customized massage of infused oils with native plants.

Spirit of the Rockies

$180/90 minutes

This treatment begins with an exfoliating dry brush stimulating the lymphatic system and preparing the body for the benefits of the service. Red Mesa Living Clay blended with volcanic ash, chaparral, and desert sage from the Four Corners is then applied to detoxify, tone and re-mineralize the skin. The service completes with a customized massage of infused oils of native plants to revive your spirit.

The Peaceful Warrior

$180/90 minutes

In ancient times, when men returned from the hunt or battle, they would be rewarded with a massage utilizing herbs for therapeutic and medicinal purposes. Experience this tradition as your therapist performs a customized massage using a heated poultice in a slow, synchronized sequence to relieve aches, pains and muscle soreness. These natural herbs will also rejuvenate & soften your skin, improving circulation as an added benefit to this service.
